About This Lesson

To develop a personal profile based on an exploration of their interests and values, students will examine their own interests in a self-assessment and investigate how careers are associated to self-identified interests.

Learning Objectives:

By the end of this activity, students will

- examine how they feel about different interests
- investigate central, secondary, and other aspects of the career match assessment, and how they relate to careers
- reflect on their results, and explore the aspects for a career that interests them

Inquiry Prompts

- What are the benefits of a career assessment?
- Why should I keep an open mind about careers I don't know much about yet?
- When should I cross a career off my list even if it scores high on my Matchmaker results?
- Should I cross off all my poor match results?
- Why should I think critically about any career assessment results I get?

Teaching Strategies

Telling your students about your own journey to teaching, or the role you are in today, is a great way for students to learn that there is no right or wrong way to a career path. Each person's journey is unique to their interests, skills, and values that will change and develop overtime as we learn more about ourselves. What's most important at this point in their journey is to keep an open mind, be reflective as they learn more about themselves, and follow their curiosities.

- 1 Complete the first phase (39 questions) of Xello's Matchmaker and explore your results. Does anything surprise you?
- 2 Create an environment where everyone can contribute to the discussion.
- 3 Let students know they will be completing the first phase of the Matchmaker quiz in Xello following this discussion. Ask your students: What do you think this tool will quiz you on? and What do you hope this tool will provide you? If you need a little help explaining Matchmaker check out the Students and Matchmaker article on Xello Support.

Your students might express, "Matchmaker will tell me what my future career will be!" Of course this is impossible, but it's important that you level their expectations and set them up for success. Matchmaker is not a fortune teller, but rather another way to explore career options they may not have considered for themselves. It is likely they will receive career results that may not align with their personal values, and helping them see why that is the case will not only help them to understand the way Matchmaker works, but will encourage them to be critical thinkers when it comes to their match results.

For example, it's quite possible for a vegetarian, who has strong values for animal rights, to still be matched with the Butcher career, because the career's Central Aspects (learning new hands-on skills and working with food and drink) could be liked very much, but the quiz does not account for the individuals personal values.

Activity 1 - My Teacher's Career Path

Recommended
8th Grade

Length
20 Minutes

- 4 Tell the story of how you became a teacher. You may want to touch on some of these ideas:
 - When did you start to realize you has an interest in working with children? (Central aspect)
 - When was your first teaching or training job? Did you know then that a teaching career would right for you?
 - Did you always like speaking in front of groups of people or presenting ideas and information in writing? (Secondary aspects)
- 5 Share your Matchmaker results as a way to model critical thinking. Log into your demo student account and from your About Me page explore your Career Matches. What surprised you about your results? Were there any matches you'd hide based on your personal values or self-knowledge?
- 6 Click into a career you know you wouldn't pursue, but returned a high match and investigate Find Out Why. For example, many teachers and counselors receive high matches with the Funeral Director career because central aspects, like considering the feelings, views, and behavior of people, are liked very much, however, you may know handling the deceased person's remains is a core task you would not be successful at.
- 6 Direct your students to complete Activity 2 - Matchmaker Phase 1.

Activity 3 - Find Out Why and Save Careers

Recommended
8th Grade

Length
30 Minutes

Inquiry Prompts

- Will Matchmaker tell me what I should be?
- Why is this career an excellent, good, fair, or poor match for me?
- Which careers interest me at this time?

Teaching Strategies

In this activity, students will explore their list of career matches after completing the first phase of the Matchmaker interest assessment to “Find Out Why” careers have been identified as an excellent, good, fair, or poor match, and then they will save their first three careers to their saved options.

- 1 Provide the instructions on the next page to your students.
 - You may want to consider adapting step one to be a class discussion.

Find Out Why and Save Careers

Student Instructions

- 1 Explore Careers in Xello, by sorting the careers by your Matchmaker (Interest Match) results, and ask yourself:
 - What careers surprise me?
 - What careers make sense?
 - What is the level of match for a career I am interested in? Does this match result make sense?
- 2 Click into at least three careers with different match results (excellent, good, fair, and poor). Within each career do the following:
 - Review the career profile content
 - Click on Find Out Why to reveal what you like or dislike about this career. Do your answers make sense? If not, update your answer.
 - If you updated an answer did the match result change?
- 3 Select at least three careers of interest to save to your Xello saved options. These careers do not need to be excellent matches, but should be options you'd like to investigate further. To review all your saved options click on the heart icon beside your avatar.
- 4 After saving 3 careers, proceed to the Xello Lesson called Explore Career Matches to gain a better understanding of central, secondary, and other career aspects.
- 5 OPTIONAL: After completing the Xello Lesson, revisit your career matches and dismiss any careers you feel blah about or that don't fit with something you believe strongly in. From the Explore Careers page, click Hide for any career you want to dismiss so that you can focus on the ones that you want to explore further.
